October 2007 Volume 3 Issue 4

By Stephanie Faehling

One, Zero, Nine. Most of us, when we hear a sequence of 3 numbers like this, we might think about the beginning of a social security number or maybe our high school locker combination. Joey Negron, on the other hand, has had his life branded by the numbers so much so that he wrote a book about the sequence.

Negron, a Mobile Therapist and Behavior Specialist Consultant of 6 years for the PCS Berk's County Office, wrote 1ZERO9, a book of his memoirs. From childhood to adulthood, readers travel with Negron through his lifetime of tragedy, love and success. Discussing some of the roughest years of his life, Joey describes decisions he made as an adolescent that would mold him as an adult, and he manages to do it in an inspiring, yet humorous, fashion.

The book is currently available for purchase at Borders, Barnes and Noble, Target, Amazon.com and Joey's web site, www.1zero9.com. "He worked really hard on this book, and I'm very excited for him that it has gotten published!" expressed Jennifer Lebo, BHRS Administrator in PCS Berks Children's Services Office.

Joey celebrated in July a book release party and book signing events locally and in New Jersey during the months of November and December. Negron will be attending book signing events in the local and regional areas at Borders, Borders Express and other book stores in the next several months. Joey has aspirations to incorporate 1ZERO9 into the school system, juvenile detention centers, group homes for troubled youth and other venues in order to inspire today's youth. So, be on the lookout for the numbers One...Zero...Nine...
